Volume 2. Health information, Planning and Monitoring

---

Edited by Roy M. Acheson, D. J. Hall, and Lesley Aird

---

This volume discusses subjects of great importance in assessing the quantity, quality, efficiency, and effectiveness of health care. It covers the entire range of health services, for clinical, administrative, and research uses. The book will interest clinicians, health administrators, and students throughout the world. Paper covers £4 Oxford Medical Publications

---

Foundations of Epidemiology

---

Abraham M. Lilienfeld

---

This introductory text aims to strike a balance between experiment and analysis, methods and biology, infectious and chronic disease. It is arranged according to the epidemiologist's reasoning, moving from mortality to morbidity data, and then to different types of field studies. Numerous examples of the epidemiological analysis of specific diseases are provided. £4.50 paper covers Oxford Medical Publications

Epidemiology as a Fundamental Science in Health Services Planning, Administration, and Evaluation

Edited by Kerr L. White and Maureen M. Henderson

---

This is the report of a conference in March 1975, organized by the International Epidemiological Association, and sponsored by the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Its purpose is to describe the contributions that epidemiology can make in the effort to provide more effective health care services. Paper covers £6.25

Urban Health in America

Amasa B. Ford

---

This is the first comprehensive account of health conditions in American cities. It documents the effects of the physical and social environment on health, and describes how the urban health system works. In dealing with both disease patterns and health care organization, the author sets urban conditions in perspective by discussing the suburban and rural situation. £9

ASPECTS OF SEXUAL MEDICINE

From the British Medical Journal

Freer discussion of sexual matters on television and in the popular press has led to many more patients approaching their doctors for advice on sexual problems. The articles collected together in this book give practical advice on common problems such as impotence and on the help and guidance that may be given to handicapped patients and others with special difficulties. Few doctors received adequate instruction on sexual medicine at their medical schools: Aspects of Sexual Medicine brings them up to date.

The 10 sec. screening test for lead in blood has arrived!

The esa Model 4000 Hematofluorometer gives a direct measurement of zinc protoporphyrin (ZnP) in blood.

Because ZnP is a metabolite that increases in proportion to the amount of lead ingested and absorbed by the soft tissues of the body, the instrument provides a positive pre-screening for the presence of lead in those tissues.

- Uses whole blood (just one drop: 25-50  $\mu$ l from a fingerprick).
- Low cost operation – only glass capillaries and slides needed.
- No contamination problems.
- Easy to operate (even by unskilled personnel).
- Compact, portable.
